Dear colleagues and fellow Georgia urologists,

I’d like to invite you to the 2013 Georgia Urological Association spring meeting, March 1 – 3, 2013 at the beautiful Ritz-Carlton Lodge in Greensboro, Georgia. We have an excellent program planned, especially tailored to residents in the field.

I’d like to especially welcome speakers Dr. Somanath Shenoy from the Georgia Health Sciences University, Dr. Dean Assimos from the University of Alabama-Birmingham, and Dr. Martin Sanda from Harvard University and Emory University of Medicine.

Please also keep your calendars open for our fall meeting at The Cloister in Sea Island, Georgia, September 5 – 8, 2013.

On a final note, I’d like to thank past-president Dr. Amos Anderson for his superb guidance of our association throughout the last year, as well as Dr. Ritenour for working hard to put this spring’s program together.

I look forward to seeing you all in Greensboro!

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS AND OBJECTIVES

Educational Needs
Urology is a constantly evolving field that requires the consistent appraisal of diagnostic and treatment strategies. Moreover, urologic providers need up-to-date reviews of topics that affect the care of their patients. Specifically, new and emerging information in the areas of prostate cancer diagnosis, surgical technique, novel medical cancer treatment pathways, and preoperative patient assessment is important for the urologist to understand. Clinical correlation of the latest management options with patient scenarios is needed to reinforce learning.

Learning Objectives
After attending this activity, participants should be able to:
1. Explain the utility of urinary markers in the diagnosis of prostate cancer.
2. Describe the current understanding of urinary biomarkers in terms of prostate cancer aggressiveness.
3. Review the importance of preoperative patient assessment as it relates to surgical outcomes.
4. Report how preoperative processes can affect OR efficiency.
5. Describe the strategies for use of intraoperative fluorescent imaging in robotic-assisted surgery.
6. Identify how indocyanine green can be used to aid urologic cancer operations performed with robotic assistance.
7. Identify new pathways that can provide potential targets for prostate cancer therapy.
